Splošni cilji mobilnosti/Overall objectives of the mobility:

- To broaden and enrich the knowledge of the students at the College ESLG;
- To create links between higher education institutions;
- To gather experience in a foreign country in order to later improve pedagogical and research skills at the home institution.

Dodana vrednost mobilnosti (s stališča strategije razvoja in internacionalizacije sodelujočih institucij)/Added value of the mobility (in the context of the modernisation and internationalisation strategies of the institutions involved): Exchange of teaching staff will improve the cooperation of the institutions involved, which could later result in common research projects or other types of enhanced relationship between the institutions. The staff mobility offers the students at the host institution to get some foreign experience, even if they themselves do not take part in student exchange programmes.

Vsebina programa poučevanja/ Content of the teaching programme:

Economics is often a compulsory course in law study programmes as understanding of micro- and macroeconomic environment is crucial for legislative process (including the constitution) and later also for the application of existing laws. Therefore, the teaching programme will be structured in a way that is best suited to help students to a better comprehension of economic issues, focusing on the topics that are closely related to different legal matters covered by the study programme at the receiving institution. Such topics include labour and capital market, international and domestic trade, market competition analysis and different macroeconomic topics like GDP and money. The details of the teaching programme will be defined with the teacher at the receiving institution according to the existing knowledge of the students.

Pričakovani rezultati in učinek (npr. na strokovno izpopolnjevanje predavatelja in kompetence študentov obeh institucij)/Expected outcomes and impact (e.g. on the professional development of the teaching staff member and on the competences of students at both institutions): Teaching in a foreign environment offers a unique opportunity to experience a different culture and to work with students who have gone through a different school system. Adapting to a different environment will improve the teaching competences of the mobility candidate. International experience will be useful for the professional development of the candidate and can be later also applied to the work at his home institution, which is currently in a process of fostering its internationalization. In this process the mobility candidate will be able to share his experience with the colleagues at his home institution. Students at the receiving institution will get acquainted with a different approach to teaching and they will have an opportunity to improve their English language skills. The teaching programme offers the students a possibility to better understand the economic aspects of some legal issues, which should improve their comprehension of the reasoning behind the current legislative regulation and maybe even give them some ideas, how the regulation could be improved.
